

STATEMENT OF INSTITUTIONAL COMMITMENT TO GRADUATE MEDICAL EDUCATION

The University Of Florida College Of Medicine is the sponsoring institution for programs in Graduate Medical Education.

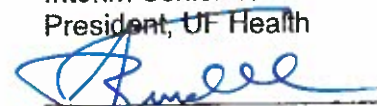

The University Of Florida College Of Medicine (CoM) is an institution committed to the education of individuals involved in health care and biomedical research. The CoM does this by sponsoring programs in undergraduate medical education, graduate medical education and in biomedical research. The CoM is authorized to offer programs that lead to M.D. degrees, and Masters and Ph.D. degrees in various biological sciences. Under the rules of the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME), the CoM also assumes final responsibility for programs in graduate medical education leading to Board Certification and is committed to providing the best possible environment for training of the future medical work force. The CoM is supported in this endeavor and authorized to conduct programs of graduate medical education under the rules of the University Of Florida Board Of Trustees and with full support of the President of the University of Florida, the Senior Vice President for Health Affairs, and the Dean of the College of Medicine. Programs are organized and administered by employees of the College of Medicine. The teaching staff of the various graduate medical education programs is under the direction of individuals with appointments within the College of Medicine.

The commitment is demonstrated by the integration of graduate medical education programs into the full continuum of medical education provided by the College of Medicine.

The "Statement of Commitment" is supported by the governing authority, the Graduate Medical Education Committee, administration, teaching faculty, and the medical staff. The University Of Florida College Of Medicine will provide the necessary educational, financial and human resources necessary to support all sponsored graduate medical education training programs.
